

Kuku/Green-lipped Mussel Resilience to Climate Change

PhD Position, IDEEA lab, Biochemistry Dept open from early 2024

Depending on student interest, this project could focus on population genetics, quantitative approaches, or more embryology-centred questions. The project will include opportunities to work closely with industry bodies and Māori stakeholders.

To start approx. February 2024, domestic fees and stipend included.

For more information, please contact
Nathan Kenny (nathan.kenny@otago.ac.nz) or pop
by Rm 3.24, Biochemistry

